

TAB G to FY 03 Commander's Curriculum Guidance - Project Warrior

1. The Army Training and Leader Development Officer and NCO Studies highlighted the continued importance of Project Warrior to the Army. Project Warrior builds a cadre of doctrinal experts at TRADOC schools and provides the Army with a cadre of tactically proficient commissioned officer and NCO leaders.
2. Following the O/C assignment, Project Warrior participants should be assigned to branch schools as small group instructors, and actively assist in writing both doctrine and training development materials. In essence, they become links between field experience and warfighting doctrine and training support literature.
3. Our best and brightest leaders should be in this program. Commandants are expected to personally select Project Warrior candidates and work the assignment process between TRADOC HQ, the CTCs, and PERSCOM. We must select potential officer and NCO candidates and branch qualify them early in their careers so a Project Warrior assignment will fit into their career progression.
4. By collaborating with the Commandants, CG, CAC will establish Project Warrior objectives.
